Every year, GSAH doctoral students present their projects to their peers and a broader public in a forum. This year, the doctoral students stage themselves in a virtual space: In an interactive format, they talk about how their PhDs have been challenged by the pandemic and show how research across disciplinary and linguistic boundaries is still possible in a virtual world. You are cordially invited to join the conversation! After the forum, the Walter Benjamin Kolleg invites you to an end-of-semester celebration, including a farewell to our new alumni.
